Jay Lake Auction Raises $1233

In a surprising turn of events, several bidders combined their resources to purchase a donation from Melissa Mork – a Xena Horde Cloak (costume component) once used on the show as a gift for BayCon staffer Skwirl Jones. Having been temporarily renamed “Vanna,” Skwirl modeled the cloak on the auction block. She’s a Xena fan herself and it was generally agreed that she looked too good not to keep it!

Be a Party Smarty!

Keep BayCon's reputation golden! Also; stay safe!

When attending any party on these premises, exercise common sense and keep these guidelines in mind:

- ☞ Party with a pal (watch one another's backs!)*
- ☞ If drinking, hedge your bets by having a substantial snack*
- ☞ Be aware of what you're drinking*
- ☞ Do not leave your drinks unattended*
- ☞ Do not leave drunks unattended*
- ☞ Avoid causing damage to hotel property (like elevator doors)*

Design BayCon's Next Logo

In its time, BayCon has had many amazing, imaginative themes with art and décor to match! But what's the one thing it's never had? A logo to last throughout the years!

It's high time for a change! BayCon Publications is pleased to announce the Design-a-BayCon-Logo Competition.

The winner will receive a $250 prize and two free memberships to BayCon 2014.

BayCon will use the winning entry for at least the next five years.

Details will be on the BayCon website soon. Direct questions to the Information Desk or visit <http://baycon.org/logo>.

Iron Game Design Winners

The Challenge: Create a game using the stipulated "secret ingredient," a hypothetical 14-sided showing the Seven Deadly Sins and the Seven Holy Virtues.

The Winners: Alicia Edmunds & Susan Morman

The Game: Welcome to Hell!

Players with various goals must progress through the levels of Hell. Virtues and vices change the landscape and raise the stakes! Item and action cards make the betrayal of other players all too tempting!
